Of Jesus many said, 'What is this wisdom that has been given to him? What deeds of power are being done by his hands!'

Mark 6:2

Prayer of the Day

O Lord our God,
you are always more ready to bestow
your good gifts upon us
than we are to seek them;
and more willing to give than we desire or deserve:
in our every need,
grant us the first and best of all your gifts,
the Spirit who makes us your children.
We ask this through our Lord Jesus Christ, your Son, who lives and reigns with you in the unity of the Holy Spirit,
one God for ever and ever. Amen.

Discovering what God wants you to do with your life and jumping right in.

A reflection by Archbishop Phillip Aspinall on his recent Companion of the Order of Australia appointment.

It is a unique privilege to serve as Archbishop of Brisbane in a fantastic Diocese with great people as colleagues.

Ordained ministry is hugely diverse and rich. I have had the privilege of serving in parishes, as Director of Anglicare, as an Archdeacon, as an Assistant Bishop, as Archbishop and as Primate.

Along the way, I have had the privilege of attending two Lambeth Conferences of all the Anglican Bishops internationally, serving on the Standing Committee of the International Anglican Communion, and attending several international Primates' meetings.

I've also had the privilege of contributing to ecumenical bodies at state and national levels and being a member of the International Commission for Anglican Orthodox Theological Dialogue.

Every aspect of these diverse endeavours has been stimulating and enriching. God's mission proceeds on so many fronts; there is never a dull moment for ordained leaders.

Ordained ministry has its share of challenges. It is heartening to know that the tough work we have done together to make the Church safer is acknowledged in the wider community.

If you are considering whether you may have a call to ordained ministry, whether as a deacon or priest, I encourage you to put your hand up and take full advantage of the opportunities and support available to assist you to discern that sense of vocation.

There are many people experienced in this area who gladly assist people making herthese sorts of enquiries. There's no telling where the journey might lead, but you can do nothing more important or fulfilling than to discover what God wants you to do with your life and jumping right in.

Reflection

"My grace is sufficient for you, for power is made perfect in weakness."
2 Corinthians 12.9

Marshmallow mayhem

I was reminded of a very busy weekend years ago when we had five active children at school and we were involved in the many groups that were part of our lives. The yard was full of kids, washing was out, a batch of marshmallow was in the mixer, the roast was in the oven and as I put several dozen ice-cream cups on the bench for the marshmallow, I remember stopping, smiling and saying to God, "Wow, aren't I good! Look at everything I've done today." A bit later I came back into the kitchen to check on the roast and glanced at the marshmallows on the bench, which were melting into a sea of sticky syrup across the bench and floor.

This reading reminds me how far I have travelled in my Christian journey. It reminds me that I accept completely that all I achieve is with God by my side, guiding me and strengthening me each moment of every day.

I am content with my weaknesses, hardships and calamities because I know whom is beside me with every step I take. This strengthens me to face the regular challenges of daily family life, confident everything is in HIS hands through prayer.

Most of us find it difficult to understand, "My grace is sufficient for you, for power is made perfect in weakness." Society often tells us to be always independent, self-sufficient and in control. Are you?
